WE LOVE CAESAR, BUT ROME MORE

An interview between a prominent and useful Alexandrian and a representative of a Washington paper, concerning the probabilities of placing the government armor plant in this city, gave a resume of the brief which is to be presented in behalf of Alexandria. The article was substantially printed in the Gazette of the same day. The superior advantages of Alexandria were succinctly set forth and we believe they will appeal to Secretary Daniels and the General Board of the Navy Department.

As the article appeared in the Washington paper it contained a suggestion that Alexandria might eventually be absorbed by the District of Columbia and become what it was prior to 1846.

Every Alexandrian is sincerely desirous that our city will secure the armor plant, and our people are ready to pay any reasonable price for this great desideratum, but a great majority are averse to dissolving their relations with the Old Dominion in order to expand their commercial importance.

A few good citizens have at times been impressed with arguments of certain persons who are restive and never at ease if compelled to endure any relations or conditions for a short time, no matter how pleasant and satisfactory they are to others. And while we have the greatest respect for those who still show traces of the retrogression fever, we prefer to live under the coat of arms of Virginia. The Goddess of Liberty has been deprived of much of her locks in times past—the chopping off of enough of her territory which comprises what is now known as West Virginia, and we do not believe our people will voluntarily be parties to any more spoliation along that line.

INFLUX IN CHURCHES.

The fruits of the recent revival services in Alexandria were apparent yesterday, every church being filled with worshippers. Men and women who had long neglected mingling with the people who realize that the spiritual life is all or nothing, reappeared and were joyfully greeted, while large numbers who never recognized the claims of the Creator were present manifesting interest in the services. There was genuine joy in each congregation, a joy all hope will be perpetuated.

We sometimes suspect that our readers think we have devoted too much space to this all-important subject, but when we realize that good Christians make the best citizens, it is apparent that this matter should receive much of our space.

The late revival movement has left many echoes in our old city. Plans were formulated yesterday to interest the newly-received members, as well as those who have not evinced as much spirituality as they might in recent years. Bible classes will be formed of young and old alike and every effort made to keep all who have renounced the hidden things of darkness in the strait and narrow path which leads to the celestial city.

PRAYERS FOR PEACE.

Elsewhere it will be seen that the Pope is earnestly praying for the return of the dove of peace to this planet. The pontiff has been thus engaged for some time, or ever since the sword was drawn from the scabbard. The words, "The kingdom of heaven is taken by violence and the violent take it by force," is the tosin of the holy see.

During the present season when the great Day of Atonement brings all Israelites to the throne of grace, the present generation of Hebrews, are crying mightily to Jehovah for peace. Jews in all wars are placed upon the anvil by the different belligerents. Members of this ancient race are in all armies, and brothers are fighting brothers in the trenches on the Somme and in the rifle pits of the eastern war zone. Those left at their homes are ill-treated and pil-laged first by one army and then the other.

Prayers were offered in thousands of synagogues throughout the United States and the world at large yesterday for a speedy termination of the awful conflict which is devastating a large portion of the globe.

The Israelite is told to "pray for the peace of Jerusalem." He has no capital city of his own, nor has he had any during many centuries.
Hence he is not praying for his ancient home, but for the countries in which his lot has long been cast.

POLYGLOT CONDITIONS.

It is often suggested that entire communities in small and newly-formed towns and villages in the west do not speak English. They dwell among themselves and naturally continue to use their mother tongues.

On the East Side of New York, most of the residents of certain streets are Israelites. They speak their own tongue, and Hebrew letters are used on their signs, while their papers are printed in the dialect used previous to the Jewish captivity; twenty-five hundred years ago.
Chinamen follow the example of the Israelites in the same locality.

The United States Bureau of Education is engaged in the commendable work of inducing immigrants to the United States to attend night schools, and chambers of Commerce throughout the country are engaged in this campaign. The Department of the Interior is urging all such organizations to vie in the work.

In 1910, 6,588,711 foreign-born whites were employed in the various industries and lines of business activity. Until the war started, this number was added to very greatly by immigration at the rate of a million a year. Over 1,462,134 adult males, most of whom are wage-earners, do not speak English, and consequently are an added problem to industry in the administration and management of plants.

BOOK CHAT.

A Weekly Resume of Some Worth-While Books.

"The Brook Kerith," by George Moore, MacMillan Company.

"Mr. Britling Sees It Through,"
by H. G. Wells, MacMillan Company.

These two books are among the most note-worthy of recent offerings.
The Brook Kerith is especially so for a number of reasons. Those of us who have read some of Mr.
Moore's earlier works must be frankly astonished that he, of all men, should undertake to tell the story of the life of Jesus. The author's mentality; his utter—almost unatterable at times—frankness concerning the inner life, as he sees it, has as often shocked as illuminated the minds of the ordinary people who lead ordinary lives. We are considering, however, minds of ten years ago; and so, as the minds of most of us have evolved from the prudery which forbade public discussion of conditions which yet existed all round us, so also, perhaps, Mr. Moore's mind may have evolved to a fitness to consider his very big subject. His artisan's grasp is graceful as that of Robert Hichens and Maurice Hewlett and this book, while entirely dissi-

Chronic Dysentery.

An old gentleman of this town who was almost at the point of death with chronic dysentery some time ago and had given up all hope of recovery was induced to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.
One dose stopped the discharge, and after taking a few more doses he was completely cured," writes J. L. Baer, West Manchester, Pa. "Many residents of Baer's Station can testify to the truth of the above and were aware of the old gentleman's condition." Obtainable everywhere.

lar, has yet a flavor of "The Garden of Allah" and "The Forest Lovers." This comparison is made in connection with his power to lure the imagination back to the country in which Jesus lived at the time he lived in it. He paints some beautiful pictures of the Holy Land in the olden times.

As to the author's viewpoint of Jesus, it may be said that it is inevitable that each one of us, in accordance with our individual temperament, should possess a personal picture of the Saviour which is likely to remain unchanged by anything of this sort that we may read. At times Mr. Moore approaches the sublimity of conception which abounds in Renan's "Life of Christ," and also, but less abundantly, in the book by Canon Farrar.

Mr. Wells' Book.

Mr. Wells' new novel gives one an absorbingly interesting view of the effect of the war upon the personal life of the English people. The ordinary reader will find it clever and penetrating as are all Mr. Wells' writings, without, however, the strain which he so often imposes upon the intellect of people not accustomed to intensive thinking. It will perhaps rank as one of the most popular of the author's recent productions. It has also a strong sociological as well as readable value. We are all as much, if not more so, interested in the condition of the people not at war in the countries involved in the great conflict as in those actually at the front.

Potential Russia, by Richard Washburn Child, E. P. Dutton and Company.

In addition to being one of the most graceful and sympathetic of writers of current fiction Mr. Child is fortunate in the possession of an intimate knowledge of Russia. This country, with China, is one of the countries which has a strong hold upon the imagination of a great majority of people. It clossal possibilities; its vast expanse; the fact that so little is known concerning it, make it of absorbing interest. It is fortunate that Mr. Child should have turned the instincts of the humanitarian, the precision of the historian, and the power to write already alluded to into an effort to portray the future of Russia for us. It is a well-worth while book, this of which we speak.

Other New Books.

"The Rising Tide," by Margaret Deland, Harper and Brothers. A very charming story.

"The Magnificent Adventure," by Emerson Hough, D. Appleton and Co. Equal to the best of Mr. Hough's firing and colorful yarns.

For the youngsters, Billy Topsail, M. D., by Norman, Duncan. The Fleming H. Revell Company.

An affidavit having been made and filed that the defendant, Norah H.
Barker, is not a resident of the State of Virginia, and the Sergeant having made a return upon the original process issued herein that the defendant is a non-resident of his bailwick and application having been made in writing to the Clerk of this Court for an order of publication against the said defendant to appear and answer a bill in Chancery filed by the complainant against the defendant as above stated, it is ordered that she do appear within fifteen days after due publication of said order of publication and do what is necessary to protect her interest in this suit.

And it is further ordered that a copy of said order of publication be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Alexandria Gazette, a newspaper published in Alexandria, Virginia, and that a copy be posted at the front door of the Courthouse of this city on or before the next succeeding rule day after this order is entered and a copy of said order of publication shall be mailed by the Clerk of this Court addressed to the said non-resident at 2108 O Street, Northwest, Washington, D.
C., her last known place of abode.

Modernized Chiropractic has put more so-called incurable Diseases on the list of curables than any other drugless method known.

When applied to the study of the nature, cause and elimination of disease, it becomes a science and philosophy which is able to locate and analyze, unerringly, the cause of disease, and provides the best method known at the present time for removing the cause.

The method is original, unique, adequate, and is the most prompt in bringing about a cure. It is absolutely safe.

The basic principles of Chiropractic are in no way at variance with the established facts of Anatomy and Physiology, the two branches of medical science which are the foundation of all others.
